How to be THE LUCKIEST GUY ON THE PLANET in 4 Easy Steps

Posted by James Altucher on February 25th, 2011

I told my dad, "I'm a lucky guy." He said, "But are you lucky in love?" I was six years old. Love was the most disgusting thing in the world to me. What the hell was he talking about? Love was living in another neighborhood at that time. Or another planet. It would be years before Love stuck its ugly little nose into my house and said, "hello, anyone here?"

Luck was all about rolling the dice. Or finding a quarter on the ground. Or seeing a double rainbow after a quick storm.

But now I'm different. I'm constantly checking in and out of the Hospital of No Luck. I'm older. I need luck to be constantly transfused into me or I run out of it. Without luck, I'm dead. For me, good luck equals happiness. On a scale of happiness from 0 to 10, I think I'm about a seven or eight. But that's a big improvement. When I was lying on the floor here, I was probably about a zero. Or at different points in this story, I was maybe at negative. So I'm trending upwards. I get lucky when I stick to three simple goals:

My ONLY Three Goals in Life

A) I want to be happy.

Még nem jártam kinn a többieknél a másik szobban, csak most ébredtem fel, de már behallatszik, hogy "ezt fényképezd le, meg azt is, meg ezt is így"... Hugom és mamám nyúzza az új kamerát. Nem rossz ez a sulnet ilyen szempontból.

Amikor nekem sikerült annó tavaly nyáron összeszórni egyre, emlékszem mennyire örültem. Hogy rögtön ott van a sz. gépen és lehet elküldeni bárkinek, hogy annyit fényképezek amennyit akarok, ilyenek. A technika azért úgy látom fejlődött ez alatt a másfél év alatt, de nem ingylem most a családtól az újat. [Mert az enyém még mindig jobb :)] Lement ez is, karácsonyfaágók kikapcsolva, nagyszülők odahaza, ajándékdédelgetés elég volt. Vissza a való életbe kicsit, azaz gyereünk aludni :) Most este még olvastam egy kis Új Galaxiát, van benne pár nagyon jó novella. A Galaktika persze klasszikus, de egy dolog miatt utol lehet érni: már nincs. A weboldalakon pályázatot is írtak ki, ha van kedve valakinek publikálni. A fantáziám rögtön meg is mozdult (ez a sci-fi-ben azért jól jöhet), ki is lett adva a parancs a tudatalattimnak, ma megálmodjuk a sztorit! Optimistán kell hozzáállni, pedig a legtöbb megálmodott sztori inkább a Félelem és reszketés Las Vegasban delíriumát tudná tovább árnyalni...

Valamiért nem megy a szerver, ahol a leveleim vannak... :( Rossz is függőnek lenni... Nah, megyek megnézem tartogat-e valamit számomra a hűtő, és mit írtak a többiek :)

Igen, határozottan ezzel teszek jót az emberiségnek, ha kicsit lekapcsolódok, mielőtt rájövönne a billentyűmenés...

Így, ha az ember hasa tele van, akkor az írás nem megy úgy. Hm, meg az a bor (mindössze egy deci, ennyire vagyok hitelesítő) is lehet kicsit fogalmazógató...

Not sure why I started to write 750 words originally, I think I must have read about it, or the idea behind it in some blog or article on the net. Maybe just always wanted to write a lot, and didn't have any other convenient place to do it? I mean it is very nice here, very good design, simple functionality, and the creator seems to be a very awesome guy, with many different projects, interesting stuff all around. Of course, this is just as interesting as I make it, there were other people I recommended it to, and they didn't like it as much, or used it in a different way. Never mind that, I don't have to satisfy anybody in any way. I just have to figure out how to do the things I like to do myself. Not that it is very easy. Not that hard either. Right now I know I'm really excited about a lot of things, and want to finish a lot of stuff I'm planning, and not to think too much ahead. Though will have to think ahead, unless all these world will kinda fall into pieces. Good pieces though, something surprising. That could be an advantage as well, I would, or I do need some more surprises of the good kind. There are many good kind, though, unplanned activities, something that just "comes up" and go there with people I like, those are probably the best. As always "plans are useless but planning is indispensable". Huh, good to say lot of empty words, aye? Instead of finding my own expressions, let's just use other people's stuff. That's okay to a certain extent, even to a big extent, though, because other people are usually much cleverer than me, so let's just learn from them. There's a lot to learn.

Oh, yeah, today will have a seminar, that looks very interesting, finally looks like a good speaker from outside, not from the institute, even working in different country. Also have to catch up on my MITx course, not sure when, maybe in the evening, should have a little more time today. Especially if I can finish writing my Ignite talk, and then can instead concentrate on practicing it, instead of procrastinating and trying to plan and write. Will have to translate somehow into Chinese as well, that will be a good practice as well, will have to remember them as well. I wonder how to write some good notes for that. Suddenly will have to do some pinyin or maybe hōpomofo, wonder which would remind me better? Hah, never been any better than learning under fire. How many days are left? Judging from the little boxes up there, I have four more days to practice 5 minutes of Chinese presentation. Will have to check if the timing is okay, and can fill up the time very well. I don't know. will try. Maybe can try to speak slowly, or do some other tricks - or maybe even can be myself for a change? I guess that would work well as well, I don't know, will have to think about it. Might watch a couple of more Ignite talks to see how other people handled it, though haven't seen one given in a foreign language yet. Or, yeah, I had, Erica in our crowd, she was giving the talk instead of her native French in Chinese. Very brave, and fun too, people enjoyed it a lot. It's fun. Also because she chose the topic well, and delivered in a very friendly manner. That compared to other people's talk, those are often quite "I mean business" type. That's very different, not that it's not good, it's just very different. I guess it's normal since the speaking habits are very different for everyone, and then why wouldn't the presentation style be very different.

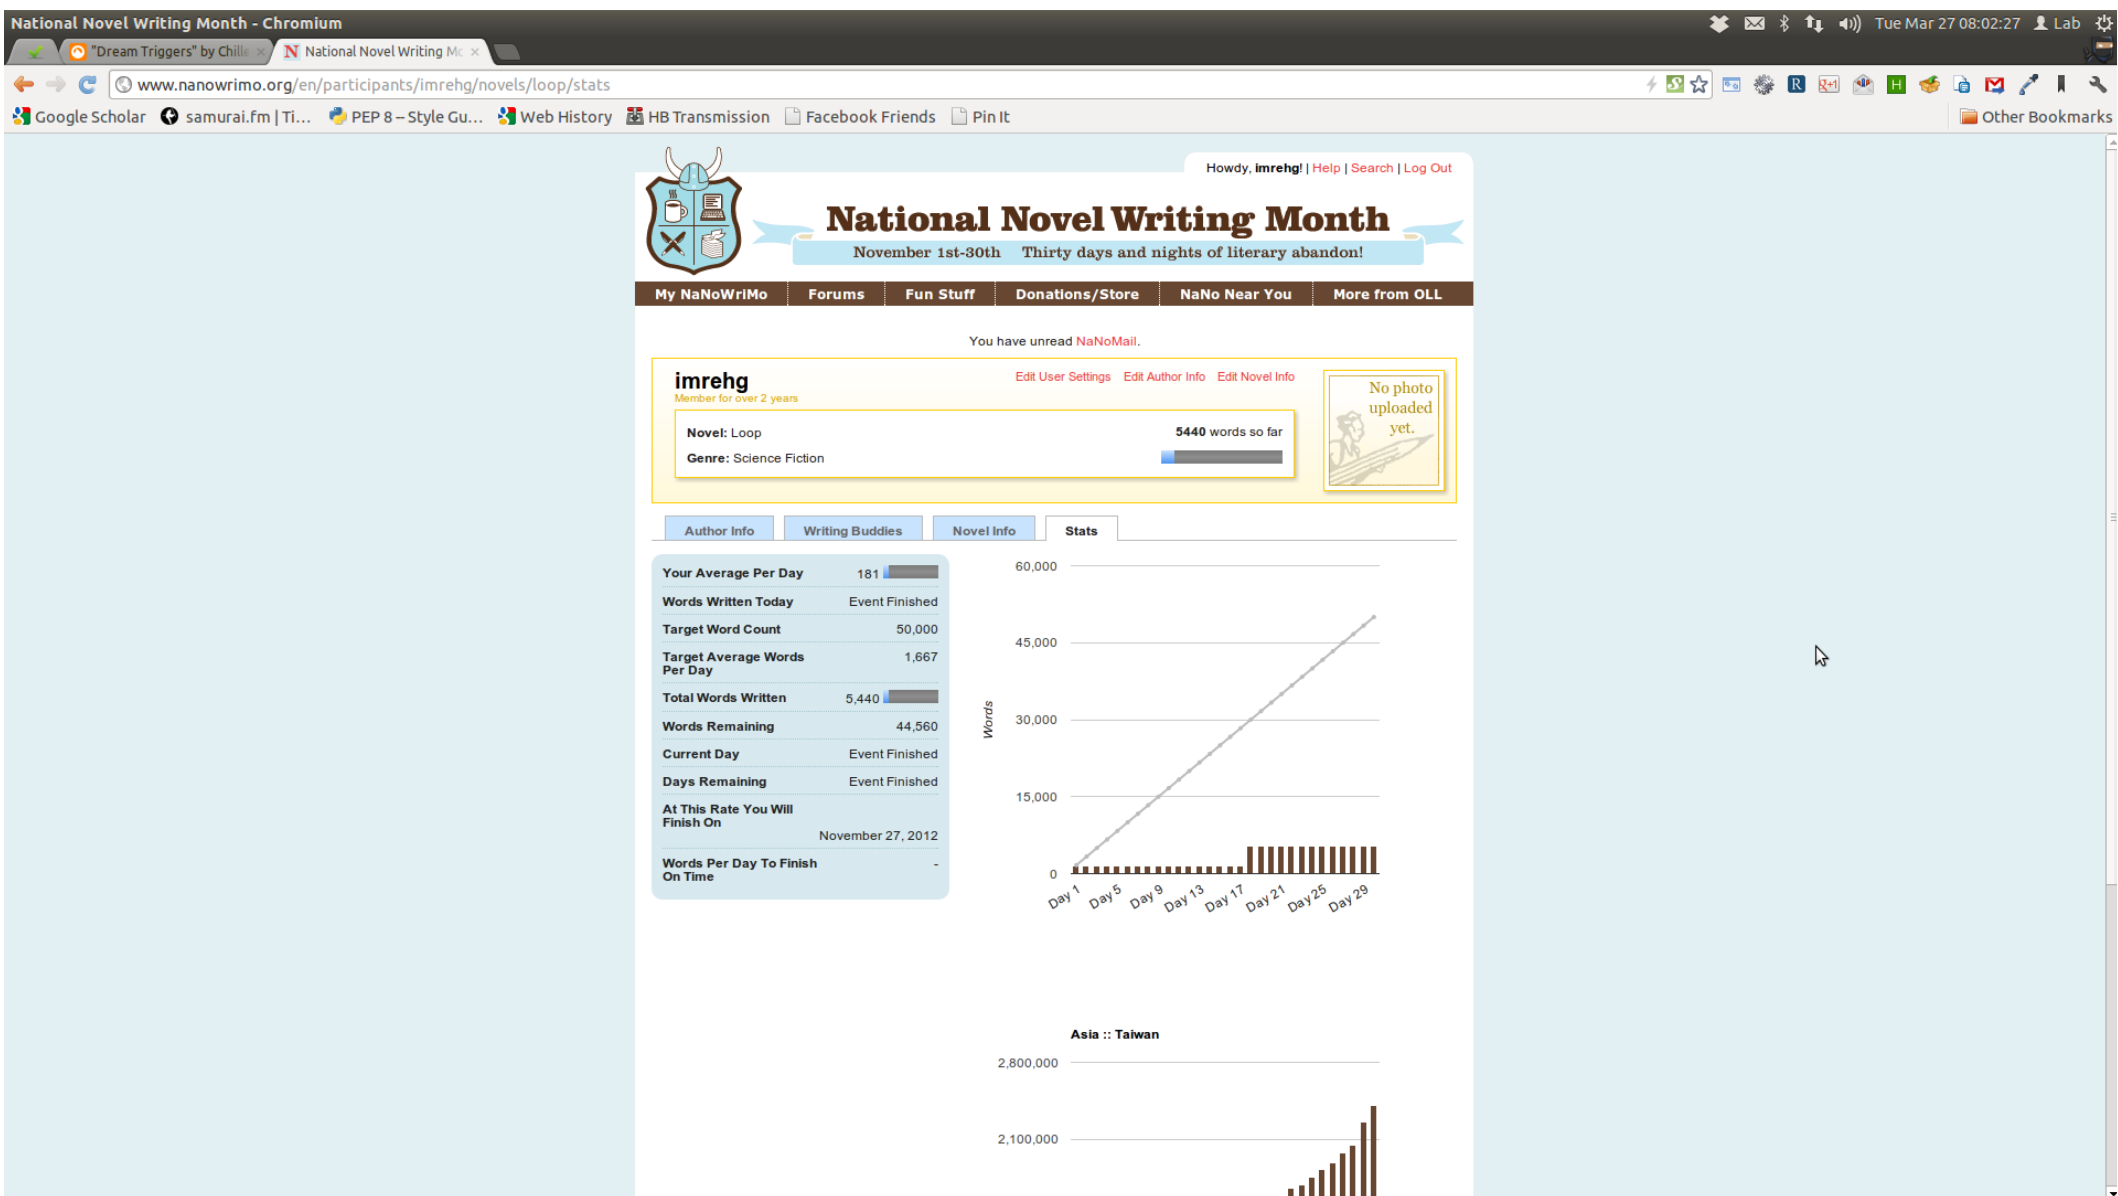

This music I'm listening is really weird, quite a bit of talk, not that it does help me very much with writing. It's a bit
